Q1 Where is University of Toyama ?

A1 University of Toyama has three campuses located in Toyama City and Takaoka City of Toyama Prefecture. Toyama Prefecture is located in the west coast of the central region of Japan and it has a population of about 1.1 million. Toyama prefecture is blessed with views of the Toyama Bay in the Sea of Japan and with the wonderful sceneries of the Tateyama Mountains showing the explicit changes of four seasons. You can enjoy swimming at the beach in summer and skiing in winter, and also high mountain climbing all year round. You can easily access our campuses by airplane and the high-speed Hokuriku Shinkansen train from Tokyo. It takes 1 hour by airplane and 2 hours by Shinkansen from Tokyo. There are also other routes to reach Toyama using buses or trains from Osaka and Nagoya as well as from Tokyo. It takes 3.5 hours by train from Osaka.

Q2 What academic programs does University of Toyama have?

A2 The University of Toyama has 9 undergraduate schools and 9 graduate schools as listed in the table below. 'Global Sustainability Science Program at the graduate school of Sustainability Studies' and 'Materials Science and Engineering Program at the graduate school of Science and Engineering' allow students to earn a degree only in English.

For the course's details or deadlines for applications, please check out the web site.

Q6 Can I have a part-time job?

A6 As the status of your residence is 'Student' whose priority is 'study and research', international students are generally not allowed to work part-time. However, it is possible for you to work part-time with permission in advance when you are in unavoidable difficult situation.

Q7 How is the housing situation?

A7 University of Toyama has Gofuku International House and Sugitani International House for international students and researchers. You can see the number of rooms and monthly rents in the tables below. Due to the limited number of rooms, not all applicants can be placed in.

There are many apartments for students near the university and the rents in Toyama city are much cheaper than those in Tokyo or other big cities. Most monthly rents of international students living in apartment range between about 20,000 yen and 30,000 yen.
